EVENT TICKET SALES, LLC d/b/a SECUREBOXOFFICE.COM,

Respondent.

ASSURANCE OF DISCONTINUANCE

The Office of the Attorney General of the State of New York (“NYAG”) commenced an investigation pursuant to Executive Law § 63(12) and General Business Law § 349 into the resale of event tickets by respondent Event Ticket Sales, LLC (“ETS”), owner and operator of two ticket resale websites, secureboxoffice.com and box-officetickets.com. This Assurance of Discontinuance (“Assurance”) contains the findings of NYAG’s investigation and the relief agreed to by NYAG and Respondent, whether acting through its respective directors, officers, employees, representatives, agents, affiliates, or subsidiaries (collectively, the “Parties”).

FINDINGS OF NYAG

1. Respondent ETS is a Nebraska-based company, which at all relevant periods was engaged in the business of facilitating the resale of tickets to live events through its website, secureboxoffice.com (the “Resale Website”).

2. Respondent provided marketing services intended to direct internet traffic to the Resale Website, where prospective buyers could search on the secondary market for tickets to events, for example by event type, artist or team name, venue, or date. A search for tickets on the Resale Website displayed tickets that independent third parties have listed for resale on a platform owned and operated by ETS's third-party vendor, Ticket Fulfillment Services, L.P. ("TFS"), a wholly-owned subsidiary of Vivid Seats LLC.

3. ETS displayed the TFS platform on the Resale Website pursuant to a contract with TFS. When a consumer used the Resale Website to purchase a ticket through the TFS platform, TFS managed, verified, and processed the order, and ensured the fulfillment of the order, including delivery of tickets. ETS did not itself offer any tickets for resale through the Resale Website, and did not process or fulfill the orders that customers placed through the Resale Website.

4. TFS also handled customer service on behalf of ETS. If a customer called the customer service telephone number displayed on the Resale Website, opened up a live chat through a chat window on the Resale Website, or sent an email through the site or to any customer service email address displayed on the Resale Website, that communication was ultimately received and responded to by TFS. At times, however, TFS would consult with ETS about how to respond to a particular inquiry.

5. On a periodic basis, TFS disbursed to ETS the contractual commission it earned for any sales made on the platform through the Resale Website. ETS had the ability to adjust the prices of or add service fees to tickets available on the platform through the Resale Website, which in turn affected the amount of its commission.

6. The parties' contract obligated ETS to reimburse TFS for any amounts TFS had previously distributed to it, if the event for which the ticket was previously sold were canceled for any reason. TFS also had the right to deduct any such amounts from future payments to ETS, in lieu of awaiting reimbursement.

7. Prior to March 2020, the Terms and Conditions webpage on the Resale Website promised consumers that they would receive “a full refund” if the event for which they were purchasing a ticket was canceled. The Resale Website also promised a “100% Buyer Guarantee,” which guaranteed that “If an event is permanently canceled, Secure Box Office will coordinate with the selling broker to provide you with a full refund of the ticket price, including any service fees.”

8. Over the course of February and March 2020, the threat of the novel coronavirus COVID-19 began to materialize in significant ways. With COVID-19 cases mounting in New York State, on March 12, 2020, New York Governor Andrew Cuomo issued Executive Order 202.1, temporarily prohibiting public gatherings of more than five hundred people. Public ticketed events were canceled en masse both within New York and around the country.

9. Beginning no later than April 2020, ETS and TFS began to confer about the extensive dislocation in the secondary market for ticket events, and its impact on ETS’s finances. As part of this ongoing discussion, TFS created and provided spreadsheets designed to quantify ETS’s financial obligations to TFS arising from mass event cancellations. These documents compared the financial effect of continuing to offer cash refunds for all purchasers with various amounts of store credit.

10. As cancellations continued to pile up, ETS and TFS coordinated to limit the companies’ exposure to an anticipated wave of refunds. On or about April 17, 2020, ETS’s owner wrote to the Chief Executive Officer of TFS acknowledging that he was “aware TFS will provide customers with store credit in the event that TFS is unable to issue them a full refund.” Three days later, he followed up with a request to “activate the force majeure clause in the terms of service and issue 120% store credit to customers,” adding that he would personally designate certain orders to be refunded before the company transitioned to the store credit model. In a separate email that day, he also asked that TFS update the terms and conditions of the Resale Website “to replace ‘refunds’ with ‘compensation.’” TFS revised the website terms in line with this request. The new policy applied to all canceled events, regardless of the location of the venue or the residency of the purchaser, or the date of purchase.

11. On May 19, 2020, TFS recommended to ETS that it again revise the terms and conditions on the Resale Website to state that if the event to which a consumer purchases a ticket “is canceled, we will refund the purchase price . . . or will issue a credit for use on a future purchase, as determined in our sole discretion (unless otherwise required by applicable law).” The revision was implemented the following day, May 20, 2020.

12. Pursuant to ETS’s request to provide store credit instead of refunds, TFS began to send out emails to customers who had purchased tickets to canceled events stating in part that, “Due to this completely unforeseen and unprecedented epidemic, we are no longer able to offer refunds for events that have been cancelled.” Despite that statement, ETS did in fact provide refunds to certain customers, but not others.

13. Throughout this period, ETS (by and through TFS’s direct communications with consumers) continued to deny refunds to numerous purchasers who were entitled to refunds by law. As of August 26, 2020, orders to canceled events placed through ETS by New York residents and purchasers to events in New York accounted for over $400,000 in gross order volume, comprising over 2,000 tickets.

14. These practices harmed consumers by failing to provide refunds they were entitled to by law and deceiving consumers by misrepresenting their ability to offer refunds for canceled events.

Regulatory Framework

15. Executive Law § 63(12) and General Business Law §§ 349 and 350 prohibit misrepresentation and deceptive acts or practices in the conduct of any business.

16. Executive Law § 63(12) also prohibits illegal practices in the conduct of any business. Arts and Cultural Affairs Law § 25.07 requires any person, firm, or corporation that facilitates the resale of event tickets to guarantee that it will refund to the purchaser the amount paid by the purchaser (including, but not limited to, all fees, regardless of how characterized) if the event for which such ticket has been resold is canceled, notwithstanding any other provision of law.

Respondent's Conduct Violated New York Law

17. NYAG finds that Respondent's conduct violated, inter alia, Executive Law § 63(12), which authorizes NYAG to pursue repeated fraudulent or illegal acts; GBL §§ 349 and 350, which prohibit deceptive acts and practices and false advertising, and Arts and Cultural Affairs Law § 25.07, which requires any person, firm, or corporation that facilitates the resale of event tickets to guarantee refunds to purchasers if the event for which the purchaser has bought a ticket is canceled.

18. Respondent neither admits nor denies NYAG's Findings, paragraphs 1–14 above.

19. NYAG finds the relief and agreements contained in this Assurance appropriate and in the public interest. THEREFORE, NYAG is willing to accept this Assurance pursuant to Executive Law § 63(15), in lieu of commencing a statutory proceeding for violations of Executive Law § 63(12), GBL §§ 349 and 350, and Arts and Cultural Affairs Law § 25.07.
